

PORTFOLIO OBJECTIVE

The primary objective of the Aggressive Growth portfolio is capital appreciation with higher risk tolerance. The profile of this portfolio is similar to that of an aggressively positioned, all-equity portfolio.

INVESTMENT PHILOSOPHY

Asset allocation is a portfolio management process where various asset classes are combined in one portfolio. Properly implemented, asset allocation is a time-tested approach that addresses risk through diversification. The Confluence approach to asset allocation is different than traditional asset allocation approaches which rely on long-term historical averages for strategic capital market assumptions. Confluence recognizes that risk levels and return potential rise and fall over market and economic cycles. Therefore, we apply a dynamic process in which the Confluence team estimates the performance of 12 different asset classes in terms of risk, return and yield looking forward 3 years. This cyclical approach is not market timing. Rather, the intention is to remain within an acceptable risk profile, while changing the asset class mix to optimize return potential. We may adjust allocations in much shorter time frames, depending upon changing views of the marketplace and economy. Alternately, we may abstain from making significant allocation adjustments if we believe the existing posture remains optimal. The process may involve somewhat higher turnover than a more static strategic program, but usually involves less trading relative to tactical approaches.

The asset allocation portfolios utilize exchange-traded funds (ETFs). We may use ETFs that allow us to focus on or avoid particular industry sectors, bond maturities, commodities or countries.

HISTORICAL MODEL ALLOCATIONS²

²These allocations reflect the model asset allocations over time. The allocations do not represent actual trading as actual investment results vary from model results due to inherent limitations in sector, industry and asset class ETF securities that do not perfectly replicate a selected asset class. Asset allocation in client accounts may vary based on individual client considerations and market fluctuations. The allocation of assets in the model portfolios may be changed from time to time due to market conditions and economic factors. The investments held by the portfolios are not guaranteed and do carry a risk of loss of principal. Each asset class has specific risks associated with it and no specific asset class can prevent a loss of capital in market downturns. ETFs trade like a stock but charge internal management fees; there will be brokerage commissions associated with buying and selling ETFs unless trading occurs in a fee-based account. FOURTH QUARTER 2018 AGGRESSIVE GROWTH MARKET OBSERVATIONS

- ◆ The U.S. economy is stable and growing, with sentiment indicators remaining high. A recession is not included in our cyclical forecast.
- ◆ The Fed's tightening policy has thus far had modest effects. We expect a continuation of increases in the fed funds rate in tandem with a reduction of the Fed's balance sheet.
- ◆ Though unemployment is low, we find that the employment/population ratio indicates a continuance of slack in the labor force, thereby blunting the potential impact of wage growth on inflation.
- ◆ Midterm elections in the U.S. hold the potential for a divided government, which dims the prospect for new legislation to be enacted.
- ◆ The asset allocation portfolios retain their high relative weighting to equities given economic health and expectations for continued GDP growth. At this point in the economic cycle, our style bias remains in favor of growth at 60%/40%.

As with the prior quarter, there are no changes to the allocations or sub-asset class exposures in the Aggressive Growth portfolio. The U.S. equity exposure is still composed exclusively of mid-caps and small caps, both of which have a 60% tilt toward growth. This reflects our positive economic outlook and our expectations for the continuation of earnings growth as well as the prospect for high levels of M&A activity to remain elevated.

This portfolio's allocation to non-U.S. equities has a majority of its exposure in emerging markets, where there is a sizable exposure to small caps due to their differentiated returns. The developed non-U.S. exposure retains a concentration in Europe, where relative valuations are attractive. We retain the 5% allocation to gold due to the hedge it can provide against geopolitical and currency risks.

This portfolio may be appropriate for equity-oriented investors with a higher risk tolerance.
