

PORTFOLIO OBJECTIVE

The Growth & Income Taxable portfolio combines objectives of growth and income, with more emphasis on growth. The profile of this portfolio is similar to a portfolio with a blend of stocks and bonds.

INVESTMENT PHILOSOPHY

Asset allocation is a portfolio management process where various asset classes are combined in one portfolio. Properly implemented, asset allocation is a time-tested approach that addresses risk through diversification. The Confluence approach to asset allocation is different than traditional asset allocation approaches which rely on long-term historical averages for strategic capital market assumptions. Confluence recognizes that risk levels and return potential rise and fall over market and economic cycles. Therefore, we apply a dynamic process in which the Confluence team estimates the performance of 12 different asset classes in terms of risk, return and yield looking forward 3 years. This cyclical approach is not market timing. Rather, the intention is to remain within an acceptable risk profile, while changing the asset class mix to optimize return potential. We may adjust allocations in much shorter time frames, depending upon changing views of the marketplace and economy. Alternately, we may abstain from making significant allocation adjustments if we believe the existing posture remains optimal. The process may involve somewhat higher turnover than a more static strategic program, but usually involves less trading relative to tactical approaches.

The asset allocation portfolios utilize exchange-traded funds (ETFs). We may use ETFs that allow us to focus on or avoid particular industry sectors, bond maturities, commodities or countries.

HISTORICAL MODEL ALLOCATIONS<sup>2</sup>

<sup>2</sup>These allocations reflect the model asset allocations over time. The allocations do not represent actual trading as actual investment results vary from model results due to inherent limitations in sector, industry and asset class ETF securities that do not perfectly replicate a selected asset class. Asset allocation in client accounts may vary based on individual client considerations and market fluctuations. The allocation of assets in the model portfolios may be changed from time to time due to market conditions and economic factors. The investments held by the portfolios are not guaranteed and do carry a risk of loss of principal. Each asset class has specific risks associated with it and no specific asset class can prevent a loss of capital in market downturns. ETFs trade like a stock but charge internal management fees; there will be brokerage commissions associated with buying and selling ETFs unless trading occurs in a fee-based account. ### THIRD QUARTER 2018 GROWTH & INCOME MARKET OBSERVATIONS

- ◆ We expect that Fed policy will continue tightening through year-end, with as many as two additional increases in the fed funds rate in tandem with a measured reduction in the size of the Fed's balance sheet, but the prospect for a recession is not included in our cyclical forecast.
- ◆ Our expectations are for continued GDP growth throughout the balance of this year and into 2019. Accordingly, equity exposures remain elevated across all strategies relative to our historic allocations, with a 60% growth style bias among U.S. equities.
- ◆ The outlook for the U.S. dollar is path dependent upon the durability of both trade conflicts and Fed posture into and through next year.
- ◆ We retain a modest allocation to gold given the combination of the potential for global political instability and its current price well below our estimate of fair value.

There were no changes to the allocations in the Growth & Income strategy from last quarter. Exposures to equities, both U.S. and non-U.S., remain at historically high levels and underscore our positive view toward valuations and economic conditions. Within the U.S., we retain a skew to growth equities and hold a sizable 15% exposure to small caps, with the expectation that M&A activity will remain elevated. Among large caps, the overweight to growth is partially offset by sector positioning in Energy, Financials and Materials. While there were no changes to the bond allocations, we eliminate the remaining position in long-term corporates in favor of long-term Treasuries as we find the risk/return trade-off to be more attractive.

As noted above, we maintain the exposure to non-U.S. equities at a historically high level with an equivalent split between developed and emerging markets. The developed exposure has an overweight to Europe. This strategy also retains its prior 3% allocation to gold, given its tendency to offer a hedge against geopolitical and currency risk.
